

FIG. 3. Geometry of a rotating neutron star with hot spots. The star is here depicted as rotating about the positive  $z$  axis, with two antipodal hot spots in red, and a variety of angles defined in the text. The line of sight and the vector  $\mathbf{k}$  lay on the same plane which passes by the origin on the figure.

